Seminar: The chalk talk for a faculty position

This seminar will cover the ins and outs of giving a good chalk talk. The chalk talk may be a component of an interview for a faculty position, where candidates describe the major elements of their future research program in an interactive format, with frequent questions from faculty in the audience. Join us over lunch where UC Berkeley Professor Michael Rape will discuss the overall structure of this type of talk as well as tips for giving a successful chalk talk.

Speaker:

Michael Rape, PhD
Dates and Times:

Friday, November 17, 2017 from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. at Mission Bay in BH 212 Register through Eventbrite [1]

- Access our online resources on interviewing for a faculty position [2]
- To receive future announcements, subscribe to the PFF Listserv [3]

Can't make it to Mission Bay? Email allyson.spence@ucsf.edu [4] for the livestream link to watch from your own computer

To prepare for your academic job search, visit the OCPD website for tips, resources and sample materials:

http://career.ucsf.edu/academic-careers [5]

Questions? Contact Laurence Clement, Program Director of Academic Career Development at laurence.clement@ucsf.edu [6].

* /

UCSF Main Site
Website Disclaimer

© 2015 The Regents of the University of California

Source URL: https://career.ucsf.edu/seminar-chalk-talk

Links:
[1] https://chalk-talk.eventbrite.com
[2] https://career.ucsf.edu/pac-up-5-interview
[3] https://career.ucsf.edu/node/584
[4] mailto:allyson.spence@ucsf.edu?subject=Chalk%20talk%20livestream
[5] https://career.ucsf.edu/academic-careers
[6] mailto:laurence.clement@ucsf.edu